

Iris virginica

Southern Blue Flag Iris

Beautiful, showy flower. In the wild, it forms huge pools of blue in wet meadows and marshes. It's a great plant for the banks of streams and ponds. It will grow in ordinary garden soil as well, although it won't spread so vigorously.

Suggested companions: Michigan lily (Lilium michiganense), golden ragwort (Senecio aureus), golden alexanders (Zizia aurea), royal fern (Osmunda regalis). Also with moisture-loving grasslike plants (Juncus sp. and Scirpus).
